The Montage is a Memory Book for Alabama College. A year's life crammed into a few short pages. The whole story you won't find here, only pieces, but pieces designed to jog a thought, a remembrance.

The book is one to be skimmed now, the pictures are to be enjoyed, laughed at, the time for remembering is not 1965 for the past is still too linked with the present.

But when the mists of years haze these days, the Montage will serve as a torch to cut through, to bring back perhaps a smile, perhaps a tear, but always a memory . . .

DEPARTMENT OF ART

To provide the opportunity for a liberal art education for all students on campus is the aim of the Art Department of Alabama College. Through teaching the relationship of lines, patterns, and colors to produce an artistic. harmonious effect, the Art Department hopes to instill in each and every student an appreciation and understanding of art.

The curriculum of the Art Department includes the following fields of art: Graphic, Sculpture, Design, Art History, and Art Education. The department offers the Bachelor of Arts degree and a Class B Elementary-Secondary teaching certificate.

DEPARTMENT OF BIOLOGY

The Biology Department is able to offer excellent training in both general biology and medical technology curricula. The department is better equipped than similar departments in other colleges of comparable size and scope, offering an undergraduate research program. During the last three years, at least $25,000 worth of equipment has been obtained.

The excellent members of the staff are interested and engaged in research.

DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION

The education of prospective teachers at Alabama College is a cooperative undertaking involving the Education Department among others and comprising a sound program of general education, a carefully planned sequence in each teaching specialty, and specific preparation for the teacher's daily work. Secondary school teachers are advisees of the Education Department, but each completes a major and a minor in other departments. The Education Department offers certain of the professional courses and also supervises the apprenticeship of some 40 elementary and 80 secondary trainees annually. Their directed teaching experience fully occupies half a semester and takes the student teacher into five or more school systems. Other departmental functions include the sponsorship of educational organizations: Student NEA and the Association for Childhood Education.

DEPARTMENT OF ENGLISH

Dr. John Lott
Chairman

The English Department offers two courses in the general education program—a freshman course in composition and literature and a sophomore course in major British writers. In addition the department offers advanced courses in the major fields of English and American literature. It joins with several other departments in offering a master's program for teachers in American studies.

Each spring the department sponsors student writing in the Southern Literary Festival.

DEPARTMENT OF FOREIGN LANGUAGE

The Foreign Language Department offers in addition to the first two years of Spanish, French, and German, advanced courses in the languages. To keep the classics flourishing in our Liberal Arts College, a Latin scholar has been employed to teach courses in elementary and intermediate Latin.

Last year a new 26 booth language laboratory with latest Acoustron equipment was installed, and this year laboratory courses have been initiated on a second year level, in which Alabama College again leads the state.

DEPARTMENT OF HOME ECONOMICS

The development of the student as a person, a citizen, a homemaker and a professional home economist is a basic goal of the Department of Home Economics.

This department, the first one in the state, offers courses for majors and non-majors, who are interested in preparation for family living. Programs of study are designed to prepare majors for becoming professional home economists in the fields of vocational home economics teaching, retail economics, institutional economics and related positions.

DEPARTMENT OF MATHEMATICS AND PHYSICS

Three major programs in mathematics are designed to meet the needs of students interested in careers in teaching, applied mathematics, or in additional study leading to advanced degrees. In addition to the mathematics programs, the department offers courses in physics and in basic engineering. At Alabama College qualified students may complete the first two years of the basic engineering program and then obtain an engineering degree by taking the remaining two years at the university of his choice.

In the Physics Building laboratories students obtain first hand information by performing experiments in the various branches of physics. Recently, a grant from the National Science Foundation, which was matched by funds from Alabama College, made it possible for the department to purchase additional scientific equipment and apparatus amounting to $25,000.

Having the responsibility for instruction in the areas of economics, geography, history, political science, and sociology, the Department of the Social Sciences offers a major or minor in each of these fields, except geography. In addition, a composite major or minor in the social sciences is possible, if the student takes a required number and variety of courses within the department.

The most important fact about the department is that the College has acquired the Jeter Building and intends to renovate this building and use it as a social science building.

THE ALABAMA COLLEGE LIBRARY

The Alabama College Library is a great asset to the college community. Used extensively by both students and faculty, the library houses a wide variety of materials necessary to complement the knowledge gleaned from textbooks and lectures.

The book collection numbers 85,687 volumes plus a popular fiction-non-fiction collection. The library receives 750 magazines and 17 newspapers. The exhibit cases and bulletin board in the foyer are always filled with subject matter from various fields of interest.

THE MEISTER SOCIAL CLUB

The Meister Social Club is the oldest men's social organization at Alabama College. Jointly sponsored by Reuben A. Triplett and William Cobb, the group strives to meet its motto of "Unus in Fraternitate" (unity in brotherhood).

Although its membership is selective, the Meisters partake in a variety of activities ranging from competitive sports to social activities. The group has also held the highest cumulative point average for the past two semesters.

THE SIGMA SOCIAL CLUB

Sigma is based on the idea that an individual, living and working with a group which stresses excellence in its every phase, can derive benefits and rewards, both immediate and far-reaching, as he in turn gives to the group loyalty, devotion and service and accepts its inherent responsibilities and obligations.

In less abstract terms, Sigma is an organization pledged to the promotion of scholarship, the creation of an active social life, the cultivation of leadership, the promotion of a wholesome athletic program, the performance of worthwhile service projects, and the encouragement of participation in campus activities. The ultimate of these aims is the fostering of a close-knit brotherhood, which largely determines the success of the other phases. Without demanding conformity, the Sigma Social Club encourages its members to the ideal of the well-rounded college man, while attempting to cultivate individual talents and interests.

ALABAMIAN . . .

"The Voice of the Students"—the ALABAMIAN—is a semi-monthly newspaper compiled by students. Its primary purpose, that of stimulating student thinking and affording students a chance to express their conflicting views, is made possible by the great amount of trust and freedom given to the staff by administration and other areas of authority—freedom which has become an A.C. tradition.

In an academic community like ours, where there are active, searching minds and only one newspaper to express their thoughts, that newspaper must have an editorial policy of the fairest and most comprehensive presentation possible of campus news and issues. Such is the aim of the dedicated volunteer staff of the ALABAMIAN.

The TOWER, the literary magazine of Alabama College stimulates creative expression in the various art forms as well as in criticism. Its purpose is to express through poetry, short stories, plays, essays, and art work the individual comment of imaginative young people. A necessarily small and select staff works on the TOWER, editing the work which is submitted.

Previously published bi-annually, the TOWER was published only in the spring, 1965, in order to have a fuller, more luxurious edition. Following publication, a reading of selections and a critique led by the English department was held at Reynolds' Hall in conjunction with the awarding of prizes. Such opportunity for student analysis of student-written work is the purpose of the TOWER.
